

YOUR YITRO LEADERSHIP STATEMENT JOURNEY

Reflecting on the Path So Far & What Comes Next

Where You've Been

Seminar 1: Leadership Begins with Inspiration

You started out your journey by sharing a quote that reminded you of a living leadership mentor and reflected on how they shaped you. You explored what resonant leadership feels like in action. You connected the quotes of your peers to Jewish values and resonant leadership traits.

Seminar 2: Keeping It Real

You heard the story of Rabbi Zusia and spent time considering the kind of leader YOU are personally, and naturally. You identified your wobbles. You free-wrote a draft of your leadership statement.

Seminar 3: Making It Jewish

You reflected on a real-life moment of witnessing or embodying Jewish resonant leadership and shared those moments with your peers. You returned to your statement drafts by brainstorming how you lead not only with resonance, but with Jewish texts, values, rituals and practices.

Seminar 4: Reflecting, Revisiting, Reimagining

By October 9, please submit a short reflection through this form (no more than three paragraphs; bullet points are welcome).

Share three things:

1. What you have learned about yourself as a Jewish resonant leader so far in the Yitro Leadership Program.
2. A moment from Summer 2026 when you felt you were truly embodying your best self as a Jewish resonant leader.
3. A moment from Summer 2026 when you could have led with greater resonance.

At Seminar 4, you'll bring these reflections to small groups, where you'll workshop them into a shareable draft of your leadership statement.

Between Seminar 4 and 5: Advisor Check-In

You'll share your draft with your advisor during your check-in. Together, you'll reflect on your insights and refine your statement.

Seminar 5: Articulation and Affirmation

You will have multiple ways to share your leadership statement with the larger group — verbally, in writing, or through another creative expression.

This process is not about perfection.

It's about discovering how your leadership lives in you — and how it's evolving.
